A Workshop on Argument Structure

February 5 and 6, 2008

Call for Papers

A NORMS thematic workshop on Argument Structure will be arranged at Lund University, Center for Language and Literature, February 5 and February 6, 2008

(NORMS: Nordic Center of Excellence in Microcomparative Syntax, <http://norms.uit.no/>)

Organizers:

The GRIMM-group at Lund University (<http://project.sol.lu.se/grimm/>)

Christer Platzack (christer.platzack@nordlund.lu.se)

Mai Tungseth (Mai.Tungseth@hum.uit.no)

Invited speakers (45 min. talks, 15 min. discussion):

Artemis Alexiadou, University of Stuttgart

Heidi Harley, University of Arizona

Gillian Ramchand, University of Tromsø

Abstracts invited

Two-page abstracts are invited (35 min. talks, 10 min. discussion).

Dead-line: November 15, 2007

Speakers are notified at latest December 15, 2007.

The aim of this Norms thematic workshop on Argument Structure is twofold: we invite papers that examine the microparametric variation in the argument structure across languages, and papers that want to develop syntactic theory in such a way that the restrictions on argument structure can be calculated.

Conference language: English
